AGAINST THE PHILANTHROPIC.

Insurance Commissioner Asked to Investigate an Association.

The Insurance Commissioners have been asked to investigate the Philanthropic Industrial Life Association by Caroline Phillips, Lettie Phillips, Columbus Phillips, Frances Phillips, Mary Phillips, Hattie Hassler, Annie Groves, Elsie DeHorne, Nellie Booker, William H. Groves, Amanda Teeters, Mattie Haughey and Emma Haughey. The petitioners allege mismanagement on the part of the directors, and that the association is unable to meet demands for money. The superintendent of the company, Mr. Roberts, states that the petition is the result of malice of a former employee, and that most of the persons who have signed the petition are not stockholders in the association, as they have permitted their names to be used.

MR. SPAAN'S APOLOGY

HE SETS HIMSELF RIGHT WITH DR. STERNE FOR REMARKS MADE.

An Incident of the Hinshaw Case Before the County Medical Society Last Night.

The Marion County Medical Society met in regular session last night. The order of new business called for something of a surprise in the shape of an apology from Henry N. Spaan to Dr. Albert E. Sterne and the society, for language used in the closing speech before the jury in the Hinshaw trial. Dr. W. N. Wishard made the statement of the case to the society, saying that he had ventured as a mutual friend of Mr. Spaan and of Dr. Sterne to write to the former and suggest to him that an apology should be given. He placed his request both upon the ground of justice in the remarks quoted about Dr. Sterne and as due in order that the feeling among doctors that they could not secure fair treatment from lawyers should be removed. Dr. Wishard said that Mr. Spaan had written a letter in answer disclaiming that he had said the Doctor had been bought, or that he could be bought for money. Before that letter was received, however, Mr. Spaan, the Doctor said, called at his office to make a personal explanation. Dr. Wishard told him that Dr. Sterne cared nothing for what was said except the words impugning his honesty. Mr. Spaan then sat down and wrote the following statement and apology: "Dr. W. N. Wishard: I did not at any time say that Dr. Sterne was bought by money, or that he was not that his testimony was bought. The term 'bought' was used in connection with the explanation of an opinion of the Supreme Court, in which expert testimony is severely criticized. Again I say: If any has the impression that I said that Dr. Sterne was bought or that his testimony was influenced by money, such impression did not come from me. Feeling, however, since talking with Dr. Wishard that I may have unconsciously done Dr. Sterne a wrong, I tender the Doctor an apology, no matter where the impression came from."

With the apology, said Dr. Wishard to the doctors present, "I think the transaction may be said to be creditably and amicably closed."

AMUSEMENTS.

In the "New Shrine," Kellar, the magician, who claims to be the only "wonder-worker" in this century, who has studied among and can be compared with the magicians and adepts of the far East, exhibits at the Grand every night evidence of his success after years of study of the world's mysteries. In presenting the "Queen of the Roses," "The Growth of the Flower," and "The Flight of the Adept," Kellar gives the opportunity to judge of the value of his claim that he is the first of living magicians, because he is the only one who has devoted the best years of his life to researches in India, the home of the magic. He had another good house at the Grand last night. There will be a popular matinee this afternoon and another on Saturday. Kellar remains all week.

"A Bowery Girl" at English's had an enthusiastic election-night house, and the elaborate scenery, the songs and specialties and the exciting incidents of the play were received with favor. The engagement closes with the matinee and evening performances to-day.

Sadie Hasson is having her usual big week at the Palace in "A Kentucky Girl," the theater being crowded twice a day.

The third act of Roland Reed's "The Politician" takes place in the convention hall, and shows the practical workings of a nominating convention. Among other characters, one that is bound to be particularly interesting, is Cleopatra Sturgess, "twentieth-century woman," who comes very near upsetting the convention by insisting on a woman's rights plank in the platform. This role is taken by the beautiful actress, Miss Malone, who makes a great hit. The popular comedian and his fine company will be seen at English's tomorrow night, for one night only, in the new play.

Contorno's Band in two select programmes will be at English's Opera House Saturday afternoon and night. Popular prices and popular music will be a feature of this engagement.

"Two Old Cronies" at the Empire has started in for another big week at that theater.

A petition has been presented to the London County Council urging it to refuse to endorse the action of the licensing committee of that body in granting upon Wednesday last an unconditional license to the Empire Theatre. The petition is signed by Lady Henry Somerset, J. Monro, Gibson, Price Hughes and a number of other reformers. The newspapers generally denounce the action, and the London Standard, for instance, asks where they were when the licensing committee was in session.

Fiske Jubilee Singers.

Louise's Original Fisk Jubilee Singers gave a concert at the Fourth Presbyterian Church last night to an appreciative audience. This company of singers has returned from a six years' tour around the world. The company includes nine singers and a pianist. The voices are wonderfully rich and sweet. In the loud passages the church rang with the melodies of the old South, and in the soft passages every note was distinguishable, but as gentle as a zephyr. The programme was varied, and included glees, the melodies and hymns peculiar to the colored people and a number of ballads. Mr. Loulin, the leading basso, sang "Deep in the Mine," and for a recall the famous laughing song. The audience laughed in appreciation of the contagious humor of the piece. Miss Calloway, a soprano, and Miss Malone have particularly sweet, powerful, well-trained voices. The Jubilee Singers will fill a number of engagements in the various churches of the city.

Lord Hope's Debts.

Arrangements have been almost completed in London by which the estate of Lord Henry Francis Hope, including that of Deepdene Surrey, will be transferred to an insurance company in consideration of an amount sufficient to pay his debts at the rate of 10 shillings on the pound. Deepdene, where the Prince of Wales has just been entertained by Lord and Lady William Bessford, will partly be sold in build-lots, which please the former Duchess of Marlborough, who does not require the whole of this land. It is expected that Box Hill, which is included in the estate, will be sold to the nation. The trustees of the estate are trying to sell the famous Hope Diamond, which is valued at £2,000. An American gentleman recently offered $100,000 for this stone. Lord Hope married May Yohie, the American actress, last year.

Dr. Crafts's Local Engagements.

So far from the preachers being displeased with Dr. Crafts for mentioning the local needs of reform in his address on reform at the preachers' meeting, he has since received invitations, in addition to that of Dr. Haines for next Sabbath evening, to assist the Attorney-general. The defense briefs alleging a large number of errors, chief among which is the charge that some of the jurors were incompetent by reason of their familiarity with the case.

Winnie Smith's Case.

The case of Winnie Smith, convicted of the murder of W. B. Thomas, will be argued to-day in the Supreme Court on a motion for a new trial. John B. Elam will assist the Attorney-general. The defense briefs alleging a large number of errors, chief among which is the charge that some of the jurors were incompetent by reason of their familiarity with the case.

A Repapering Dodge.

A man purporting to represent an employee of Albert Gall called at No. 461 North Capitol avenue yesterday morning and said that he had come to measure the rooms for repapering. The servant admitted him without question, and permitted him to go from room to room unquestioned. When he left he took about $9 with him, belonging to Mrs. Seelye, the occupant of the house.
